Think Trauma Training Series: A Training for Working with Justice Involved Youth Series

(Participants must sign up for all 4 days to complete the training)

Tuesday, April 11 at 11:00am

Thursday, April 13 at 11:00am

Tuesday, April 25 at 11:00am

Thursday, April 27 at 12:00pm

The aim of this webinar series is to make creating trauma-informed juvenile justice systems easier to implement. Many youth in the juvenile justice system have survived horrific traumatic experiences including chronic exposure to violence that has profoundly shaped how they think, behave, and respond. Direct care professionals working with youth in juvenile justice-related facilities have very challenging and emotionally draining roles; they are responsible for preserving their safety and the safety of others and serve as parent, counselor, mentor, role model, disciplinarian and advocate.

Goals of the Training Series include:

- To educate juvenile justice professionals about the impact of trauma on the development and behavior of youth in the juvenile justice system
- To provide juvenile justice professionals with the knowledge and skills needed to:
 - Respond appropriately to the behavioral and emotional challenges of traumatized youth
 - Help traumatized youth develop the ability to recognize trauma or loss reminders
 - Help traumatized youth recognize and develop their strengths
 - Help traumatized youth recognize survival coping strategies and develop positive coping strategies needed to grow into healthy, productive, and functional adults
 - Take care of themselves and seek support from others
- To learn strategies for supporting youth reintegration into the community
- Understand the role of intergenerational, historical, and system-induced trauma on youth behavior
- Develop strategies for adjusting agency practices and procedures to more effectively address the impact of trauma on youth, their families, and staff
- Review the role of youth cultural experiences for building resilience among traumatized youth

Vaping and Marijuana: What Parents Must Know

Tuesday, April 11 from 1:00pm - 2:30pm

Vaping remains a huge problem for teens both at school and at home - not just with nicotine vapes, but also for THC and marijuana products. Join Dr. Aaron Weiner, President of the Society of Addiction Psychology, for an exploration of vaping, including flavor restrictions, federal regulations, and THC products sold at gas stations. Most importantly, learn what you as parents can do to keep your teens healthy and safe. Register to watch live OR to get a recording of the webinar sent to you.

Alcohol Industry Influences on Underage Drinking

Tuesday, April 11 from 2:00pm - 3:30pm

The alcohol industry knows its message: That alcohol is part of having fun, having friends, playing sports, or being sexy or manly. This webinar will focus on the influence of advertising and alcohol industry practices on underage drinking. Presenters will provide a thorough inspection of industry practices that get kids' attention with a special emphasis on emerging high risk alcohol products, which are defined as products that are produced, marketed or advertised in a way that creates an unreasonable risk of being attractive to teens or kids. Presenters describe and provide examples in 7 categories of high risk products, such as products designed to be "healthy", youthfully packaged, flavorings, and the creation of alcoholic versions of beverages that are traditionally teen-oriented (and non-alcoholic). The session will also examine the role of social media in promoting these products.

Building Confidence in Kids and Teens

Wednesday, April 12 at 12:00pm

We all want to help our kids in every stage of life, whether it's cutting up food for a toddler or helping a teen navigate college applications. At certain ages, though, children and adolescents should feel confident in their abilities to do some things for themselves. That's confidence and self-reliance at their core. What skillsets should kids know in order to become self-reliant? How can we tell, as our children grow, when we should parent and when our loved ones should be leading the charge? And how can we help shape our kids into empowered and responsible adults while keeping their mental health in mind? In this previously recorded session, David H. Rosmarin, PhD, ABPP, shares tips and tricks about teaching confidence and self-reliance, offers insight into when we should be letting our loved ones lead, and answers audience questions about how these skills can lead to better overall mental health.

Focus on EQUITY

Xylazine and How it Harms People Who Use Drugs

Tuesday, April 11 from 3:00pm - 4:00pm

We will review what is known to date on Xylazine, a CNS depressant, which has been linked to an increasing number of overdose deaths in the US. This roundtable will discuss its physiologic effects, and risk of Xylazine harms including overdose and wounds along with suggested clinical best practices for providers and patients as well as discussing substance use disorder treatment in a post-COVID world. Discussion is designed to promote interactivity through an informal "round table" conversation. Attendees will be given the opportunity to speak directly with the presenter to ask questions and discuss issues. Target Audience: This activity was developed to meet the needs of physicians and all interprofessional healthcare providers.

2023 Maine Alcohol Misuse Prevention Virtual Conference: Examining the ripple effects of alcohol on a population

Thursday, April 13 from 9:00am - 3:30pm (this is a virtual ZOOM conference)

Alcohol use has increased since 2020 and the consequences of alcohol use remain higher than before the pandemic. In 2022, the deaths from alcohol use were more than 140,000, surpassing those from the opiate epidemic. In addition to frequent concern for impaired driving and youth access to alcohol, we've become more aware of the link between alcohol use and cancer, as well as the wide-spreading impact from the 1/6 pregnancies in Maine that are exposed to alcohol. And once again, this conference asks: What about the rest of the picture? The Maine Center for Disease Control and Prevention and AdCare Educational Institute of Maine, Inc. are partnering to bring this one-day virtual conference to shed light on the impacts of alcohol on our population. How are individual lifestyles and future generations affected in the long term by the choices made with alcohol today?

Exploring Community-led Racial Healing Models to Deepen Partnerships between Community Development and Healthcare

Thursday, April 13 at 2:00pm

This webinar will explore models for racial healing and reconciliation that are community-led and grounded in ancestral and traditional knowledge. Racism is the biggest obstacle to solving the health inequities we face in historically marginalized communities. Join us to hear from BIPOC-led Community Development Corporations that are leading this transformative work to interrogate the role healthcare institutions can play in reconciling past harms and discuss their approaches to repair the harm of racism by building relationships, trust and collective community power. Racial healing can support systemic change and advance healthcare commitments to racial equity by partnering to create anti-racist institutions, policies, and practices.

Substance Use Disorders, Sexual Health & the LGBTQ+ Community, Part 2: Facilitating Sexual Health Conversations

Thursday, April 13 from 2:00pm - 3:00pm

Part two is designed to improve treatment outcomes and client engagement by integrating sexual health into mental health and SUD treatment. Providing affirmative care has been shown to improve outcomes for LGBTQ+ clients in mental health and substance use disorder treatment. An underappreciated component of affirmative care is facilitating conversations about sexual health that positively engages LGBTQ+ clients in the treatment process. Segments of the LGBTQ+ community experience higher rates of mental health and substance use disorders or engage in ChemSex behaviors, all of which can contribute to higher rates of sexually transmitted infections. Behavioral health providers have an ethical responsibility to facilitate sexual health conversations and address the connection between mental health, sexual health and substance use disorders. This interactive workshop is designed to improve treatment outcomes and client engagement by integrating sexual health into mental health and substance use disorder treatment.

Virtual Film Screening & Panel Discussion - Ernie and Joe: Crisis Cops

Thursday, April 13 from 6:30pm - 8:00pm

Free and open to the public virtual film screening via Zoom webinar, followed by a panel discussion and Q & A. The documentary is an intimate portrait of two officers from the San Antonio Police Department's Mental Health Unit who are helping to change the way police respond to mental health calls. Ernie and Joe: Crisis Cops is a documentary film that follows two police officers in San Antonio, Texas who specialize in responding to mental health calls, showing their innovative approach to policing and highlighting the importance of addressing mental health in law enforcement, while also shedding light on the need for systemic change in the criminal justice system to better serve individuals with mental health issues.

End of the X-Waiver: A New Frontier in Addiction Treatment

Wednesday, April 19 at 1:00pm

The recent elimination of the X-Waiver, a burdensome requirement for clinicians to prescribe addiction treatment, is now gone ... what's next? Dr. Roneet Lev, an emergency and addiction physician who served as the first Chief Medical Officer of the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy joins us for a conversation breaking down the new legislative move, what it means for providers, and steps you can take to get more clinicians to prescribe addiction treatment in your community.

NAMI NH Listening Session: NH Court Diversity and Inclusion

Wednesday, April 26 from 5:30pm - 6:30pm

This virtual listening session will include two questions: 1. Do you have a court experience, positive or negative, that you want to share? and 2. What would a positive court experience mean to you, i.e., what would you like to see/not see upon entering the court system, either physically in the building or via remote filings/phone calls? We ask anyone who may want to share their perspective or be part of the process to join. Two or three members of the Diversity and Inclusion steering committee will listen to comments from our community, one of those will likely be a judge. After the session, the comments will be reduced to writing so that we can send along for your review/approval. An important part of the process is to not mischaracterize what has been shared. You may join but there is no requirement to provide names or contact information. Alternatively, you can provide details about your experience and have a leader or NAMI NH staff share them on your behalf. We know there are those in our communities involved in the judicial system, and hope some will consider sharing their perspective. Register in advance for this meeting:

https://naminh-org.zoom.us/meeting/register/tZMrduChqT0rGtXRHI1br6JFW_mzBAGqd-p4

After registering, you will receive a confirmation email containing information about joining the meeting.

Racial Trauma and Generational Healing

Thursday, May 18 at 7:00pm

In this session, Director of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion, Catarina Campbell (they/she), invites participants to understand racism through a trauma lens and to contextualize social justice through a frame of healing across generations. Through a praxis of auto-ethnography, history, and ancestral wisdom, and folk practices, we will explore how people of the global majority have survived some of the most unspeakable oppressions and transformed suffering into liberation. Catarina will encourage participants to engage with somatic, reflective, and meditative practices as a means of embodying healing and racial justice for ourselves in the here and now.
